LIFE CLOSSES FOR MISS MAUD BARRY

Seventeen Year Old Adopted Daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Barry. Born Near Ekron.

Miss Maud Miller Barry, the adopted daughter of Mayor John A. Barry and Mrs. Barry died at the home of her adopted parents, Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock after a prolonged illness of several months. Last winter Miss Barry was stricken with influenza which left her health severely impaired and death came as a relief to her intense suffering.

A simple funeral service was held Thursday afternoon in the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. J. R. Randolph, and afterwards the remains were interred in the Cloverport cemetery.

Six girl chums of Miss Barry's acted as pall-bearers, and they were: Misses Lillian Polk, Margaret Sutton, Selma Sippel, Eleanor Reid, Kathleen Squires and Eva Jolly.

Though not legally adopted, Miss Barry desired the name of Mr. and Mrs. Barry with whom she had been living about eleven years. She was the daughter of Mrs. Lucy Foushee and Henry Miller, of near Ekron, who died several years ago leaving two children, Maud and Cliff Miller. The latter survives his sister, and lives near Cister, with Mr. and Mrs. Dick Preston.

Miss Barry would have reached her eighteenth birthday in August of this year. She was a member of the Methodist church, and a teacher in the Sunday school before her health failed. She was beautifully endowed with a very lovable personality and her happy, bright nature and dependability of character were indeed refreshing. During her short life she gained many loyal friends.

Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mrs. Pack Wright and Miss Alta Dowell, of Ekron, Mrs. Eliza Bunker, of near Ekron, Marshall Sterrett, of Skillman, and Cliff Miller, of Custer.

Farmers Show Great Interest In Organization. Meeting Well Attended In Hardinsburg.

At a meeting held in the Court House at Hardinsburg on Saturday, March 20th, for the purpose of organizing a County Farm Bureau more than five hundred farmers of the county were present and manifested an unprecedented interest in agricultural co-operation.

BLOOMER REPLIES TO MR. STEWART

County Road Engineer Explains How and Where Road Money Has Been Expended

To the Editor of The Breckenridge News: There appeared in your paper recently a letter from Mr. H. C. Stewart, of Webster. There is an old saying that some folks rush in where angels fear to tread, and Mr. Stewart seems to be one of those folks. He states that Breckenridge county in May 1919, voted a Special Road Tax of "25" cents on the $100 and further says:

"Fourteen or Fifteen years previous to this tax the Fiscal Court levied a 25 cent road and bridge tax making a total of 50 cents; 45 cents to the roads and 6 cents for bridges. The 1919 tax law says that each voting precinct should have the money derived from said tax. So far, the Webster precinct has had or derived but a very small amount from the county for the upkeep of the upkeep of the roads."

"In the first place Breckenridge county did not vote a 25 cent road tax, last year, but it did vote a special 20 cent tax to be used, as the order itself declared, as every speaker stated and every letter said, with reference to said tax, that same was to be used in the construction of permanent roads in the county and to be apportioned among the different 'Magisterial Districts, according to the amount collected in each. It did not say that it would be apportioned among the different 'Precincts' or roads."

Court Didn't Levy 50c Tax.

"14 or 15 years ago" The fiscal court did not levy a 50 cent road and bridge tax and has never levied such a tax in the history of the county and under the constitution can not levy at any time in excess of a 25 cent tax for roads and bridge purposes. For a number of years we have had a 25 cent levy and no more, for those purposes. Until two years ago this 25 cents was divided equally between road and bridge funds giving to each 12½ cents. For the last two years it has been apportioned 10 cents to the Bridge Fund and 15 cents to the road fund. That 15 cents to the road fund has always been and is now carefully and religiously apportioned to each district according to the amount raised in same.

Those who are informed and "have no special ax to grind" or "political enemies to lambast" or "no personal insult to anyone" or wish to be fair or in any way careful, truthful and conservative in their statements when they rush into print, generally concede that there was more real good intelligent work and benefits accomplished on the roads of the county last year than has ever been done before in any two years of its history and this notwithstanding it rained up until the middle of June, we did not secure a County Road Engineer until the first of July and it began raining again the first of October and continued to be bad weather the remainder of the year, giving only three short months in which to do road work, following one of the worst winters on roads that we ever had. The average season permits of road

Money Not Wasted.

No, my dear Alphonzo; all of the money that the "honest taxpayers" pay for road purposes has not been wasted. It is true that labor and teams are hard to get and in some communities the prices are exorbitant but you can bet your bottom dollar that every cent of road tax money expended, so far as the management is able to obtain, secures one penny's worth of labor or material for the road and a voucher is on file for every nickel spent, and if you are half as anxious to be informed as you are to criticize, come over and spend the week when Fiscal Court meets and get a full report of receipts and expenditures, not only for road purposes but for every other purpose and if you are able to show any graft or irregularities the proper authorities will take great pleasure in prosecuting the scoundrel who does it, to the limit.

With best wishes, I am yours for a greater and better county for good roads; for more boosters and fewer knackers, for more cooperation and less foolish criticism. Very truly, John Bloomer.

PARISHONER OF ST. MARY'S DEAD

W. J. O'Brien, Lives a Long and Consecrated Life. Four Sons Survive.

McQuady, Mar. 22, (Special)—A gloom was cast over the entire neighborhood last Wednesday, March 17, when a gentle soul, Mr. J. W. O'Brien of St. Mary's parish, McQuady, passed from this life into his eternal awakening.

Mr. O'Brien was 77 years old. The cause of his death was pneumonia, and he was only sick four days. He had always enjoyed splendid health and his death although not altogether unexpected as he was an old man, came as an awful shock to his many friends and devoted children.

He lived modestly, quietly and righteously because of a sincere heart and a deep sense of his dependence upon the great God in every step of his life. He was held in the kindest affection of all that knew him; slow to anger and ready to forgive.

While it is sad to know his work on earth is ended, yet he has received his eternal reward in Heaven that the Father gives to the righteous and the just.

His funeral was held at the St. Mary's church conducted by Rev. J. F. Kneue, his pastor, who spoke beautiful truths of his life, words of consolation to those that mourn their loss, and advice to all to knock upon the door of their souls and ask if they are prepared to meet death. The burial was at Hardinsburg, in St. Anthony's cemetery, where his wife was buried nineteen years ago.

Since the death of his wife Mr. O'Brien had lived with his children. For the last ten years he made his home with his son, Malcome O'Brien. They will miss him in that home as a good kind father and grandfather. He was a faithful and untiring worker always ready to do a favor for his friends.

He leaves four sons, Irv. Malcome, Charlie and Ben, who have the sympathy of the community.

MR. HASWELL WILL RUN.

John P. Haswell, Jr., who has had under advisement for some time making the race for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district, stated yesterday to a gentleman from Hardin county that he had decided to become a candidate.

It is generally expected that he will receive the nomination without serious opposition.—Elizabethtown News.

RIVER REACHED CREST TUESDAY

Stage at Cloverport Was 46.7. Highest Point Reached This Winter.

The crest of the rise in Ohio River was reached Tuesday and since then it has been falling slowly. At Cloverport the river reached a stage of 46.7 the highest it has been this winter. For a while it was feared by the inhabitants living on the river front in the East End that they would be forced to move but they were not. So far as it has been ascertained there has been little, if any, property loss from the high water nor any livestock or poultry by the farmers owning river bottom land.

Bred Gilts for Sale

BRED TO FARROW IN APRIL

When you can save all the pigs, these gilts are good individuals of the very best breeding that I have been able to buy at any price, and bred to a son of Black Price the 1918 Grand Champion of the world and Big Uncle Sam by Big Buster by Giant Buster, The Epoch Maker, the latter hog is the largest boar that I have ever seen for his age and I have looked over some of the very best ones. These hogs are priced right, regular breeders stuff at farmers prices that we can all afford to pay.

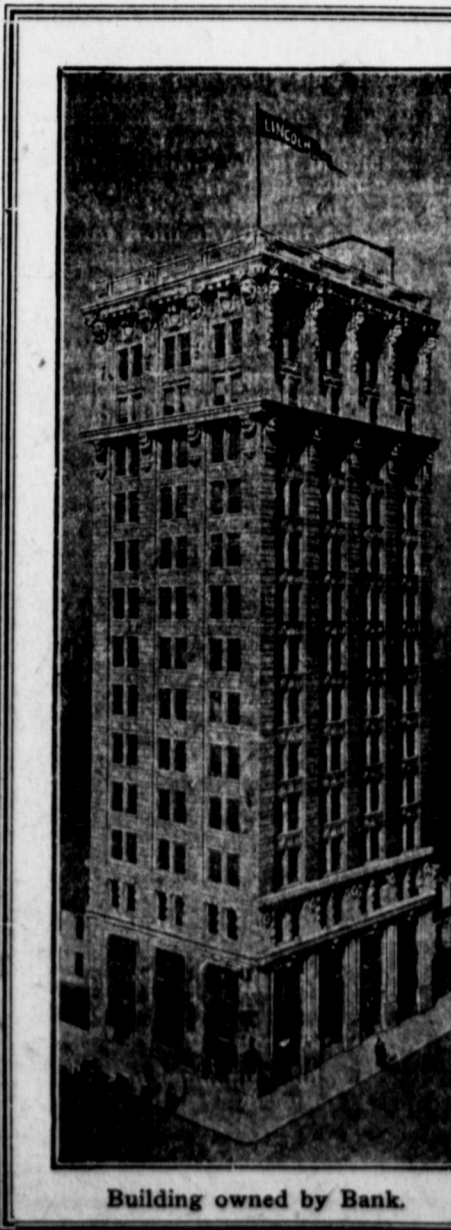

If you want a herd boar that will put you in the limelight, a real boar, a son of Black Price, this is breeding that you cannot find anywhere else at three times the price that I am asking for him a great pig for some one that needs him at a bargain. This pig is right for hard service about eleven months old.

MEMORIAL

Whereas: It has pleased God to remove from our midst our friend and sister, Miss Julia Wroe. We look to God our Heavenly Father, whose ways we may not always discern and weakly bow to the wisdom of his will. Therefore be it

Resolved: That the church has sustained a loss as she will be greatly missed in the choir and social circle of our church, of which she was a faithful member.

Resolved: That we extend to the members of her family our deepest sympathy and condolence.

Be it also Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be preserved in the minutes, one sent to the family and one to the Breckenridge News.

MEMORIAL

Whereas our Heavenly Father has seen fit to transplant our beloved sister, Mrs. O. B. Mattingly from her earthly home to one above of his own preparation, we herein express our sorrow at the loss of our church and our community has sustained.

Mrs. Mattingly had been a member of our church for many years and was always ready to extend her services toward the labor of charity and self-sacrifice throughout the neighborhood. She was an ever-zealous christian worker and was ready at all times to help the needy and poor and to visit and cheer up with her rare christian philosophy those who were either physically or spiritually ill.

By her lifelong acts of loving neighborliness and charity she had endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact, unconsciously imparting spiritual comfort to every disturbed mind.

Therefore be it resolved:

That she will be sorely missed by her fellow church members, by her friends and neighbors, and by all who knew her.

That our sympathy be extended to the sorrowing family and that with one accord we bow submissively to the wish of the Heavenly Father, whose decisions are all-wise and all-powerful.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas B. Cart, born October 10th, 1840 at Union Star, Breckenridge county, Ky., and died February 23rd, 1920 at 3 o'clock a. m. in Louisville, Ky. He was married March 3rd, 1864 to Mary Black. During his early life he professed faith in the Methodist religion, and continued to live a consistent member during his entire life.

He was a native of Breckenridge county, until a few years ago, when he made his home in Louisville with his children.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Annie Sheffire and a son, Mr. A. F. Cart, of Louisville, a brother, Mr. John C. Cart, of Union Star, Ky., and two grandchildren, Otis and Dolph Singleton, of Louisville.

He was taken to Union Star cemetery and laid to rest. Rev. Gentry conducted the services at the grave.

His residence was always a home for the ministers. He was a cheerful giver, denied himself many privileges rather than see others unhappy. So long as he was able his pew was never vacant in church.

Father dear, just one month ago today
An angel came and took you away,
Sad so sad was the call
Of him so dearly loved by all.

Sometime, someday, our eyes shall see
The one we loved so well,
Sometime our hands shall press his,
And never say farewell.

His merry laugh we hear no more,
The voice we loved is still,
And all that is left in this life for us
Is the grave on a distant hill.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. T. B. Cart and children wish to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the gracious sympathy extended us during our recent bereavement by relatives and friends, and especially do we thank Rev. Gentry for conducting the service at the grave of our husband and father.

The tender consideration of each one is deeply felt by Mother and Children.

PEPTO-MANGAN FOR "SPRING FEVER"

Spring Days Are Treacherous
—Germs Don't Disappear
With Cold Water.

AND BLOOD IS SLUGGISH
AND WEAK

Don't Take Chances if You
Feel Bad. Enrich Your Blood
With Pepto-Mangan.

There is a great deal of serious sickness in the Spring. And it is easy to see why. Long weeks pent up indoors, too little exercise and fresh air, winter sickness not entirely over with, a generally lowered vitality. Blood weak and sluggish. Then come fine Spring days—that are not as warm as they seem; or sudden changes in the weather, and you haven't taken proper precautions.

Vigorous, red-blooded people don't often get sick. If you're not feeling your best, get Pepto-Mangan of your druggist and take it to build up your blood. This effective and agreeable tonic has been tested for over thirty years, and physicians, everywhere, recommend it for run-down, pale, and anemic people.

The whole family should take Pepto-Mangan—it is good health insurance. Besides, what a joy it is to feel fit and fine—ready for anything! To have an abundance of energy and enthusiasm!

Pepto-Mangan is for sale at your druggist's and in both liquid and tablet form. There is no difference in medicinal value. Take whichever you prefer. But to make sure you get the genuine, ask for "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" and see that the name "Gude's" is on the package—Advertisement.

Durbin, of Calvary, acted as Deacon, Father J. S. Whalen, as sub-deacon, and Rev. Richard Maloney, of Owensboro, as Master-of-ceremonies. Father Fitzgerald preached the sermon for the occasion.

The young ladies entered the sanctuary attired as brides but after the mass they left and took the habit returning to have the veil placed on their heads. Seven of the young women were from Daviess county.

FARMERS MEETING

The Farmers meeting held in Hardinsburg last Saturday was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings of farmers we have ever attended in the county. It was full of pep and business. It will mean much for the farming interests in this county. It was made up of substantial and representative farmers from every section of the county who are joining hands and hearts to improve their farms their work and their condition for better citizenship and the uplift of their work and business.

The Fiscal Court had a called meeting Monday to arrange for the final line up of the County's financial end of the Highway. The Banks of the county and the members of the Fiscal Court got together and arranged to take care of the balance due on notes to the road. It looks now that everything is in good shape and that the work on the road will begin in sixty days. The Fiscal Court and the Banks deserve a lot of credit for their action in the matter.

Investigations made in factories at Niagara Falls have convinced officials of the Public Health Service that more than two hundred million tiny particles of dust, as sharp as ground glass, are breathed into the lungs and air passages with every cubic foot of air in some of the factories in the United States. Such dusts breathed into the lungs never are expelled. Photomicrographs show the tiny particles to be exceedingly sharp and jagged, and chemical tests prove them to be practically insoluble. A remedy has been devised.

Lighthouses have always been a cause of great mortality among small birds, which during their nocturnal migrations are dazzled by the light and beat themselves to death against the tower. Now lighthouses in the British Islands are being converted into harbors of safety for the birds through the construction of a great many perches and nests beneath the lights, and whereas formerly thousands of dead birds were often picked up at the base of a single lighthouse during the migration season, it is now a rare sight to find one bird beneath any of the improved towers.

HOW TO SHADOW TURKEY HEN TO HER STOLEN NEST

Given free range, turkey hens usually secrete their nests in obscure places, such as patches of weeds, tall grass, or bushy thickets, and often wander a half-mile or more from home before they find places that suit them. To find these "stolen" nests is often a long and tedious task, the usual method being to follow each turkey hen as she separates from the flock and starts toward her nest, taking care that she does not know she is observed. A much easier and quicker method than this is to confine the hens early some morning soon after they have come down from roost and let them out late in the afternoon. Those that are laying will then head straight for their nests in order to lay the eggs they have been holding.

If attractive nesting places are prepared about the barnyard, turkey hens sometimes lay in them. In the North, where the laying season often begins while there is still snow on the ground, they are more likely to select their nests near home than is the case in the South, as they do not range far during cold weather.

Nests are easily made from boxes or barrels, or by scooping out a little earth in the shape of a shallow bowl and piling brush around it to satisfy the hen's desire for seclusion. Of all nests, however, the one most preferred by turkey hens is a barrel laid on its side and a nest shaped in it with straw or hay, according to United States Department of Agriculture poultry specialists. When only a few turkeys are kept it is the usual custom to allow them free range throughout the breeding and laying season. If many turkeys are kept, however, it is usually found most convenient because breeding pens or inclosures, in which the turkeys are kept until they have laid their eggs for the day, letting them out late on each afternoon. When confined to a breeding pen several turkey hens often lay in the same nest, but on free range each hen usually makes her own nest.

FARM COW A NATIONAL ASSET

The farm cow that gives milk for human food stands first, with a total value of $2,022,000,000 as compared with other classes of farm animals for January, 1, 1920 by the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture. Not even the total value of all other cattle is equal to the value of the dairy cow.

The average price per head of milk cows in this country has increased from $58.25, since January 1, 1915 to $91.95, the average for 1919, or a gain of 58 per cent in five years, according to the bureau.

"WHY NOT MAKE A SUCCESS OF LIFE?"

"Why Not Make A Success of Life?" is asked of young people by Shelby Harrington, a pupil of the Lindsey Wilson Training School, Columbia, Ky. who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Harrington, formerly of Cloverport, recently moved to Hardinsburg Route 2. Young Harrington expresses himself thusly:

"Time is worth while. 'Time is not to waste, for there will be a time in your life when you will regret that you did not make good use of your time.

"Think of the boy or girl who goes to school day after day wasting his or her time in just having a good time or to get out of work at home. That boy or girl should be at home and be made to work from sun to sun.

"The boy or girl who goes to school for a good time keeps other pupils from studying if he can, by rolling up paper wads and throwing them at the fellow that is studying, or if that isn't enough he will pull a seat out from under him. Then when the teacher asks, 'What's the matter back there?' someone will speak up and say, 'My foot slipped.'

"That is the trouble with most boys and girls, they let their feet slip too much. What is lost today is lost forever. You cannot miss a day and go a day to school and learn to any satisfaction. You will always be a day behind, and when in your classes you'll be heard to say, 'I never had so and so.' What is the reason? It is because you didn't go to school regularly. It takes the boy or girl who is always on his or her job to succeed.

"I, as a student of the Lindsey Wilson Training School, highly recommend this school as one of the best managed schools I have ever attended. It is supported by the Louisville Methodist Conference, and we have a fine set of teachers. S. L. Harrington, care L. W. T. S., Columbia, Ky.

GIVE CHILDREN WHOLE MILK IT'S THEIR NATURAL FOOD.

Milk is the natural food for children. It is the best food we have. A quart a day for every child if possible, and a pint without fail, should be the slogan of every household.

Milk gives children the body-building protein, one of the materials from which their bodies are made. When children drink milk, these body proteins are changed and become part of their muscles and blood. Children need these because their bodies grow so fast.

Milk contains lime and other salts which are needed for strong bones and teeth and for body regulators. Many children who do not have plenty of milk have soft or deformed bones and poor teeth.

Children are so active that they need more fuel food for their size than grown people do. Milk furnishes energy for the growing child.

Besides these, milk contains certain substances which are essential to growth. These substances are called vitamins. One is the fat-soluble vitamin, so called because it is soluble in certain fats; this is found in the greatest abundance in the butter fat of milk. Butter is rich in this vitamin. It is also found to some extent in cheese.

In milk is found another vitamin, called the water-soluble vitamin, because it is soluble in water. These vitamins are found to some extent in certain other foods, but nowhere are they found in so great an abundance as in milk, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

MARK TWAIN KNEW.

Mark Twain was editing a Missouri paper, a supersatirical subscriber wrote him that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked Mark if it signified good or bad luck? Twain replied:

"Old Subscriber—Finding a spider in your paper was neither good nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchants are not advertising, so that he could go to those stores and spin his web undisturbed."—Ex.

FROGS AND TOADS.

By

JOHN K. DUKE

Very few people know that there is a difference between frogs and toads. Or, in other words, that a toad is not a frog. Although they resemble each other in appearance, they are very different in many other ways. Frogs and toads, together with Salamanders, Zoologically speaking, belong to the Amphibian group, and the early life of each is very much alike.

Frogs and toads deposit their eggs in water during the early Spring months. The eggs are about the size of shot, and are embedded in a jelly-like substance which holds them together. When first hatched the young are very different from the adult, being more like fishes. They are minus either legs of fins, and have a tail which aids them in moving about through the water. They are also, when hatched, blind and mouthless, but lips and horny jaws soon appear, along with eyes, ears, and nose, all of which are highly developed. How ever their senses grow stronger as they grow older. I have spent much time trying to find the little fellows that make so much noise in the swamps and sloughs in early Spring, but on my approach they always hide themselves in the mud and leaves on the bottom and I have never seen one yet.

Not many days after the hatching of the little frog, which in this stage of life is known as tadpole, it undergoes a metamorphosis. And here the first difference between the frog and toad appears. The tadpole of the toad is much smaller than that of the frog when they undergo this metamorphosis. During this change many things take place. The animal develops lungs, and for a certain length of time, breathes through both lungs and gills. The tadpole now changes from its diet of vegetable substance to that of animal substance and the small teeth of the frog take the place of the horny jaws of the tadpole. It develops a backbone, skull and four legs, and in making all these changes its body absorbs its tail for food, and it is now a frog or toad.

As soon as it has passed the tadpole stage, the toad makes its home on the land, never returning to the water till time to deposit its eggs. On the other hand, the frog lives an aquatic or semi-aquatic life, using the water bugs and worms for food.

The construction of the frogs mouth is peculiar in that his tongue is fastened to his lip and the back end is loose. But anyone who has tried to sleep near a pond on a warm summer night knows that his tongue being fastened at the wrong end does not interfere with the use of his vocal organs.

The toad is a very useful animal. During the day they remain concealed in holes and crevices, but at the approach of evening come out in search of food, which consists entirely of insects, all of which are injurious to man. As many as seventy-five or eighty injurious insects have been found in a toad's stomach at one time. Every person who lives in town should encourage the toad to live in his garden.

BOB-WHITE'S PLEA.

When sitting on the old rail fence,
"Neath sunny skies of blue,
Don't shoot me, happy farmer lad,
For I'm a friend to you.
Or when down by the dusty road
I sing my happy lay,
Don't injure me but let me spread
My wings and fly away.

While sitting with the covey where
The leaves are drifting down,
Or calling in the woodlands green,
Or in the meadows brown;
Don't take my life, oh sportsman, and
When in the wheat-fields bright,
Don't shoot me when you hear me
Gently call "Bob-white! Bob-white!"

When in the sunshine's morning rays
I bask at break of day,
Or in the noonday's mellow glow,
Or in the twilight gray,
And when I chant my carols blest
And heavenward my psalm soars,
Just let me live, and love and sing,
In God's great out-of-doors.
R. H. Wilson, in Our Dumb Animals

YOU'LL BE WANTED

In a little book about Lincoln, which I read a long time ago, I remember that, when he was a very young man, he said he had the feeling that some time he was going to be wanted to fill a big place in the world. And so he studied and plodded and worked.

Never in the history of the world has the idea of preparation asserted itself as it is doing now. Men who have been living comparatively quiet and retired lives have leaped into prominence and leadership. But that has always been the way, in this world of ours, where work and thinking have had their day.

La Place, the astronomer, was still at work when death caught up with him, at seventy-eight years of age. But this is what he said when dying: "What we know is nothing, what we don't know is immense!"

Some time you are going to be wanted. And what you learn today—pigeon-holed in its accurate doing, in some space—may be just what you will need at some glad and thrilling future day when the world may be looking around to see where a man can be picked who can do the job.

Most of the failures scattered about towns are there because they never impressed themselves with the fact "At some time they will be sorely needed."

ON EASTER DAY

On Easter Day, on Easter Day
The maidens don their best array.
They mince along in snowy shoes,
And silken hose and drivers hues,
And satin gowns and sashes bright,
And floating veils of black or white,
And hats adorned with plumes and wings,
And wreaths and bows and other things.

To church, to church on Easter Day
The youths repair; but not to pray.
They go to see the pretty girls
In lace, chiffon, in pearls and curls—
And as the dainty dears they view
Attired in all their finery new,
Each one decides with deep regret
He can't afford to marry yet.

FISHING—TWO WEEKS OFF.

As I listen to the gurgle
Of the brook that sings below
Where the tamaracks are bending
In their ceremonies of snow.

Ah, the fever how it tingles
E'er nerve with keen delight;
And I echo back the laughter
Of the singer out of sight.

They are waiting there alluring
In their hidden paradise—
The speckled beauties darting
In their snuggeries of ice.

E'er fancy goes a-straying
On the wings of winds that scoff;
"Get your fishing tackle ready
For it's two weeks off!"

TASTES.

Some men prefer, perhaps with right,
The girl with dreamy eyes,
While others choose the maiden who
Is always a surprise,
Some like girls strong, some like them frail,
Some big, some small,
While others seem contented with
Most any girl at all.

It's fortunate tastes vary so, with
Varied kinds of men,
That some prefer the peacock gay
And some prefer the wren.
For there would be a heap of grief,
And anguish, woe and fuss,
If all we men liked just one girl and
She did not like us.

HESSIAN FLY LIKELY TO HAVE AN OUTLOOK THIS SPRING IN U. S.

It is likely that more will be learned this year about the Hessian fly than in any year since Gen. Howe's hired Hessians are supposed to have brought the pest to Long Island during the Revolution. There have been numerous destructive outbreaks of the Hessian fly and a great deal has been found out about it, but nobody was in position to do the job properly. Another outbreak is likely this spring and the United States Department of Agriculture is ready for it.

Two years ago the appropriation for Hessian fly work was increased sufficiently to provide for the principal needs. Shortly afterwards the Bureau of Entomology established three stations for the purpose of systematic study. They are at Carlisle, Pa., Centerville, Ill., and Wichita, Kans. Each station is equipped with a full set of weather instruments, and several readings are taken each day throughout the year. Sowings have been made at various dates for several years to determine the fly-free period for each year. Experiments have been conducted with many varieties of wheat to determine their fly-resisting qualities. Exhaustive investigations are under way on parasites of the Hessian fly. The main object is to determine what effect the presence or absence of any particular parasite has on periodical outbreaks of the fly.

When the last great outbreak came five or six years ago no such complete preparation for study has been made. If the threatening one materializes this spring the preparation that has been made should result in a number of important studies.

U. S. LEADS IN NAVAL STORES FRANCE ONLY RIVAL.

Washington, March 16.—Only one country, France, can be considered a rival of the United States in the production of naval stores, and her production is about one-fourth as much as the United States, the Department of Agriculture states. Aside from lumber, the southern pines, particularly the long leaf pine, are the source of our naval stores, representing a value in excess of $20,000,000 a year. The position of the United States in these important raw materials at present is a commanding one.

A new project in naval stores is opening in the West where the Forest Service has given a permit to a Portland, Ore., turpentine company to extract pitch from 163 acres of Douglas fir in the Umpqua National Forest. This company is pioneering the new industry in the West.

Under the Constitution, provision is made that no amendment will be effective until approved by a majority of the member states.

Dues Start April 1st.
 A ruling was made that dues be paid on the basis of paid membership dues by members in the County Farm Bureau belonging to the State Association on the first day of each quarter of the year, starting April 1, 1920.

Program of Work.
 At all meetings the program of work for this year was discussed. The definite projects were made in the resolutions, in the form of a recommendation to the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee was instructed to set up without delay a business organization, under direction of trained experts, and create bureaus or divisions as follows:

1. A bureau of transportation which will look into transportation matters by both rail and water, to the end that we may secure rates on farm products which shall be fair as compared with rates on other commodities, and which shall give to the farmers of the United States ocean rates which will enable him to compete on a fair basis with the farmers of other nations of the world.

2. A bureau of trade relations which shall investigate our dealings with foreign countries to the end that the interests of agriculture may be promoted.

3. A bureau of distribution which shall inquire into world conditions distribution of farm products.

4. A bureau of statistics which shall inquire into world conditions which influence supply and demand, and which shall especially study the mechanics of prices.

5. A legislative bureau which shall have to do with matters of national legislation which affect farming and farmers.

6. A bureau of cooperation which will make a special study of cooperative methods which have been found to be successful both here and in other countries and which shall draw up standard forms for cooperative enterprises of various kinds and aid State Federations to promote local cooperative enterprises on thoroughly safe and truly cooperative lines.

Digest of Other Resolutions.
 The resolutions set forth in very definite terms a pledge of full support to the Constitution of the United States, condemning radical and reactionaries.

Increased production is essential to national well being. We stand for higher individual efficiency, we believe that the result of the day's work, rather than the hours thereof should be of paramount importance.

We pledge the farmers of America to the largest possible production consistent with good husbandry, with a view of relieving the world's dire necessities and invite the workers of all other industries to join us in this spirit of service.

We declare the strike no longer justifiable and no longer to be tolerated by a long suffering public.

We favor the creation of such arbitration boards or courts, with power and authority to adjust controversies between labor and capital as shall safeguard the rights of the parties directly interested as well as the welfare of the general public.

Realizing the need of trained workers and a healthy citizenship in all walks of life, we urge such general course of instruction of our young manhood as shall call attention to and give promise of relieving general health conditions throughout the country.

We hail the American Legion as one of the most important factors in the life of America pledge our support in its great work and welcome it to comradeship.

We pledge the full strength of this one of the most important factors in the life of America pledge our support in its great work and welcome it to comradeship.

We pledge the full strength of this institution and its individual membership in support of the good roads movement throughout the country.

Deploping the waste and extravagance of the present day, we urge the necessity for a return to the more humble and prudent practices of the past.

Our country needs stability and the brakes must be applied to secure that much desired result. Waste breeds recklessness, a lack of responsibility, and is the best aid to the profiteer whose selfishness knows no country and who has no regard for the rights of masses.

We recommend legislation providing that the presence of all substitutes for virgin wool in fabrics and apparel purporting to contain wool, shall be made known.

We recommend that a committee be appointed to confer with the International Revenue Department in working out a simplified form for Income Tax returns, for farmers.

We definitely and emphatically oppose the proposed legislation to levy a tax of 1 per cent on land holdings in excess of $10,000.

We demand for agriculture at the hands of state and national legislative bodies, the privilege of collective bargaining.

We insist that in all tariff legislation, agriculture be given equal consideration with other industries.

We wish the American people to definitely understand that the organization self-styled "The Farmers' National Council" has no authority to speak in behalf of the farmers of this country.

Any and all efforts on the part of The Farmer's National Council to ally the agriculturists of America with the radicals in the industrial world is hereby denounced.

President's Message.
 President J. R. Howard made the following statement in his short address: The lands we are cultivating must continue to feed the people of the nation for all times. There are no new lands for us to take up. It means we must conserve and cultivate our soil better, must work out our business and economic problems and make farm life more attractive in the homes schools and churches. We must make agriculture so attractive that it will appeal to and build the best citizens. We are building an organization to do these things, not only for our own good but to fulfill our obligation to society.

S. L. Strivings' Address.
 Vice President Strivings said agriculture must be made profitable. That must be part of our program to protect future production and agriculture. The vacant farm houses of New York and the crowded cities brings the truth clearly before us. Not we alone will suffer if this condition is not brought about.

American Farm Bureau Federation.
 Upon invitations of Hon. E. T. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture, the entire Executive Committee immediately left for Washington, to get acquainted with the Department of Agriculture and meet the Agricultural Committees of the Senate and House. This report compiled by E. L. Bill for temporary Secretary, J. W. Coverdale, Ames, Iowa.

WATERLOO BOY The Original Kerosene Tractor

In offering to you the Waterloo Boy, the Original Kerosene Burning Tractor, we believe we have selected the most practical, economical and dependable farm tractor on the market.

Points of Merit on Which Our Judgment Is Based:

FAST PERFORMANCE.. The Waterloo Boy has been a success on farms for five years. In no way is it an experiment.

ECONOMICAL.. It is a three plow tractor—most economical and practical size to use—burns kerosene perfectly without destroying lubricating oil. Its special, patented inbuilt manifold converts every drop of kerosene into pure gas—cylinders are not carbonized—spark plugs are not fouled. The perfect burning of kerosene saves the owner of the Waterloo Boy many dollars every year in cost of fuel and care of motor.

POWERFUL.. The two cylinders, with big bore and long stroke, furnish a guaranteed power of 12 H. P. at the draw bar and 25 H. P. at the belt, with ample reserve for emergencies. The Waterloo Boy pulls three plows under almost any field condition. Hyatt roller bearings at all important bearing points conserve full power. Weight of the tractor is sufficient to insure good traction for drive wheels.

SIMPLE.. Every part is easy to get at and easy to adjust or repair. It doesn't require a tractor expert to keep the Waterloo Boy in good working order. The crank case cover, the inspection plate, the upper half of gear case can all be removed for the purpose of inspection or repair—the operator can work from a standing position.

DURABLE.. Its heat-treated steel cut gears; its force and sight feed oiling system; its 11 sets of Hyatt Roller bearings at all important bearing points and its simple, powerful two-cylinder motor combined with uniformly high grade construction throughout, result in a tractor that has given and will give many years of dependable and economical service.

FOR ALL FARM WORK.. You can depend upon the Waterloo Boy in all farm power work, up to its high rated capacity. It is just as satisfactory in operating belt machines—threshers, shellers, ensilage cutters, hay balers, etc.—as it is in pulling tractor implements of all kinds.

Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, attended the meeting and addressed the Democratic editors of the State who were assembled there. Lexington made a strong bid for the convention, but the majority favored Louisville.

IMMENSE TUNNELS BEING BUILT IN PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, March 16.—Two tunnels, each 5,700 feet long, for the use of vehicles and pedestrians are being bored through the range of hills bordering the southern side of the Monongahela River valley here, in order that the thousands of persons who live in the southern part of Allegheny county and work in Pittsburg may more easily reach the city. Work on the tunnels, which began recently will continue for more than two years, engineers estimate, and the cost will be $4,600,000.

It is proposed to have the tunnels connect with a high bridge which will span the Monongahela river and bring the tunnel traffic to the heart of the business district of Pittsburg. This will cost $3,500,000. Each tube will be made to accommodate two lines of vehicle traffic, and in addition there will be footpaths.

GROW MORE LIMA BEANS.

A vegetable that is not enough used is the Lima bean or butter bean. It is liked by most people who have had it placed before them often enough to get acquainted with its taste. It is very digestible, very nourishing and nothing is easier to prepare for the table. By planting early it can be had from in July until frost in the green state and then the dry Limas can be used. In our garden last year from a half teacup of seed we had more fresh Lima beans than we could use from the first of August until the middle of November, but we picked off enough to run us two weeks. Besides this, we gathered more dry Lima beans that we will need for table use and for seed. One planting, four of five cultivations, one sticking, they were pole Limas, and the Lima bean problem was solved for a year.

The Lima bean can be grown anywhere in the South, but it can be had for a longer season at low and moderate altitudes and it does best on a sandy loam soil and must have a warm soil for successful results. It is a legume but it should not be planted in a poor soil. A good sweet potato soil is a good soil for Lima beans.—L. R. Neel, in Southern Agriculturist.

* EXTOLS SEN. PARKS AND REP. CAIN. *

Editor Breckenridge News: I should like to use your column for the purpose of saying a word to the people of the Tenth Senatorial District, and Breckinridge and Hancock counties, concerning their representatives in the General Assembly.

I have spent practically the entire winter in Frankfort; this being the eighteenth year which I have had occasion to visit the State capital during most of the sessions of the legislature. Permit me to say that you have never had two more creditable representatives than Dr. S. P. Parks and Roy Cain.

More progressive health legislation has been enacted this winter than at any session in the history of the state, and to Dr. Parks, as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Health, is due the credit of the enactment of most of this legislation.

Representative Cain is a sober, conscientious gentleman, always in his seat, seldom upon the floor, with a remarkable faculty for analyzing a situation and voting right. When a political question was involved, his vote would have satisfied Dr. Frank, Jeff Jolly or Blandford but when some of the self-appointed Republican leaders undertook to play politics where no partisan question was at issue, they could not deceive Roy Cain.

Looking back over the history of the district and county for thirty years, may I not say as a Democrat, that at no time have you been represented by two abler or more conscientious men.

Very truly yours, Milton Board, Louisville, Ky.

DEEDS OF AMERICA'S FIGHTERS PICTURED ON MILES OF FILMS.

Washington, D. C.—Nearly 190 miles of film, picturing the life and achievements of American soldiers in France, England, Belgium, Italy, Russia, Germany and America during the World War are included in the collection of historical documents and data in the fireproof vaults of the Signal Corps in Washington. The stories of valor and sacrifice told by these films are a great stimulus to patriotism. Already good use has been made of them by schools, colleges, soldiers' associations, historical societies and organizations engaged in "Americanization" of foreigners.

The original negatives of these films, after having been duplicated were hermetically sealed and are kept under conditions that insure their preservation for an indefinite period. At frequent intervals they are inspected with the object of discovering and arresting any change or deterioration. The duplicate negatives are used for printing whenever a new film is desired.

In addition to these "movies" of the army in actual war, there are about 3,000,000 feet of film, comprising sixty-two separate subjects, for use in training recruits and in illustrating the officers' class room special details of tactics, the employment of new apparatus and the like.

"UNCLE JOHN SHELL'S" AGE PROVES FAKE ACCORDING TO NEW YORK PHYSICIAN.

There were hundreds of people who paid to see "Uncle John Shell" at the 1919 State Fair in Louisville, also the Lexington Fair, believing he was as represented, "the oldest living man age 131 years." The publicity given this aged man by newspapers spread to every section of the country, and in order to fully comprehend his habits of living, which caused his longevity, Dr. I. L. Nascher, of New York, recently visited the old Shell home on Greasy Creek in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. After making extensive investigations he says in part in a page article in the New York Sun and Herald of a few days ago:

"From the census report in 1840 down to the present time and other evidences, I find that old man Shell was born in Knox county, Tennessee, ninety-eight years ago. He knows little or nothing about his age. He is feeble-minded and lived in most humble circumstances. His eldest child is seventy-five while the youngest is only four years of age. The appearance of this old man at the many fairs in the State was schemed by friends near his home in order that they might procure bushels of money for him, but instead, Mr. Shell claims that he received only $100 of the proceeds."

FRENCH BATTLE-FIELD HOTELS SOON TO OPEN FOR TOURISTS.

The tourist who contemplates a trip to French battle field will soon be able to get all needed information at New York, London, Paris, and almost every other capital city, according to the April Popular Mechanics Magazine. Arriving at Harve, Bordeaux, Marseilles, or other French port, the tourist will be supplied with more detailed information concerning trains and excursions. Some of these trips will carry him to prominent resorts; most will take him to large hotels, now building, in the hearts of the various battle areas. Radiating from these hotels as centers will run well organized bus and auto lines.

RETURNS SHOW WINDY CITY HAS 31 NEW MILLIONAIRES.

Chicago, March 18.—Incomes of $1,000,000 dollars or more for 1919 were reported by 731 individuals and corporations in the Chicago district, officials of the Internal Revenue Department announced today. Thirty-one Chicagoans were added last year to the ranks of those whose incomes exceed $1,000,000.

The number who made returns on incomes of $100,000 was great, revenue officials said.

Many Prominent Men Come Out For Tanlac

MAYORS, JUDGES, BANKERS
LAWYERS, DOCTORS, EDITORS AND MINISTERS
INDORSE IT.

Feel It Their Duty To Talk

They Come Forward and Unhesitatingly Tell Suffering Humanity What Celebrated Medicine Has Done for Them.

It is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially men holding high public office, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. Many prominent men, however, including supreme court judges, mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, government officials and even ministers of the Gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what Tanlac has done for them.

These well-known men of affairs have recognized in this medicine a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world. It is a well-known fact that these splendid endorsements have been given Tanlac time and time again and they will continue to be given just as often as new tests of its powers are made; and it also explains why numbers of the big drug firms of the country are ordering it exclusively in carload lots.

Doctor Prescribes It.

Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce the country.

"In my thirty years of actual practice as a licensed physician in the state of Georgia," says Dr. Edwards, "I have never seen anything to equal Tanlac as a medicine to produce results. I have no hesitancy in recommending this medicine and I am prescribing it for my patients almost everyday."

Noted Texan Talks.

Hon. Archie R. Anderson, ex-sheriff of Harris County, Texas, is unquestionably not only one of the best-known, but one of the most popular men that ever held office in Texas. He served the people in this important office for 15 consecutive years.

"I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food," said Mr. Anderson. "I suffered with neuralgic pains of the worst sort and nothing seemed to help me except in a temporary way."

"I began to feel better after taking my first bottle of Tanlac and have just now started on my third. I'm a different man already."

H. W. Hill, president of one of the leading banking institutions of South Pittsburg, Tenn., and one of the most successful bankers and business men in Tennessee, said:

"I suffered from rheumatism and other ailments for many years and Tanlac has done me more good than anything I ever tried. I now wake up in the morning feeling fine."

"I'm telling all my friends about Tanlac and am recommending it to them, regardless of their age and trouble."

Dr. G. W. De LaPerriere, of Winder, Ga., is not only one of the best-known physicians and druggists in

FORMER MAYOR RECOMMENDS IT

HON. FRANK V. EVANS, OF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., MAKES STRONG STATEMENT.

ONE of the latest additions to the large and rapidly growing list of prominent men who have publicly indorsed Tanlac for the good it has done them, is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, former Mayor of Birmingham. Mr. Evans is one of the best-known men in public life in Alabama to-day, being at one time editor of the South's greatest newspaper, the Birmingham Age-Herald. He was also examiner of public accounts of Alabama. In telling of the benefits he had derived from Tanlac, Mr. Evans said:

"For years I suffered with gastritis and indigestion in the worst form. I was habitually constipated and had pains in my shoulders and headache continually. My appetite left me almost entirely and everything I would eat hurt me. Finally I got to having awful attacks of acute indigestion, palpitation of the heart and smothering spells. For a long time I would have one or more of these spells every night and I would wake out of my restless sleep gasping for breath."

"I bought a bottle of Tanlac and to my surprise and gratification I began to feel relief after the first few doses. I kept taking the medicine and now my recovery is simply the talk of Birmingham."

the State of Georgia, but is also a man of extensive property and wide influence, ranking as one of the leading citizens of that entire section. He has been in the drug business in Winder for 25 years.

Recently Dr. De LaPerriere wrote: "Our people are much enthused over the beneficial effects of Tanlac and I desire to say that it is the most wonderful seller I ever had in this store."

Other prominent men who have indorsed Tanlac are:

Professor Elmer Morris, of Dover, Tenn.; Professor W. A. Wood, of the Central Graded Schools, Winder, Ga.; C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Co., Lawrenceville, Ga.; Hon. S. S. Shepard, member of the Atlanta city council; Hon. George Samuel Riley, former Chief of Police in Macon, Ga.; Hon. C. G. Lavender, register of Williamson County, Tennessee; Dr. W. H. QUALITY OF SEED CORN IS VITAL

Select Ears True to Variety—
Use Only Those Showing
Strong Germination.

The quantity and quality of the corn you will harvest next fall depends, first, on the kind of seed you plant this spring. Perfect culture and the best weather in the world can not remedy the initial evil if you plant poor seed.

A good seed corn, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is one that is adapted to the locality, is grown on the most productive plants of a productive variety, is well matured, and preserved from ripening to planting time in such a way that the full vigor of the seed will be retained.

It should have been selected in the fall from the stalk, but if that was neglected, all that can be done now is to obtain a uniform type of seed true to varietal characteristics and that will grow.

The mere fact that the kernels will sprout in a germinator is not the whole story. Recent experiments have shown that weak sprouts may be indications of disease, that similar seed when planted is likely not to sprout and, if it does, will grow only a few inches or, at best, produce a barren stalk.

Corn that will come up but that will produce an unprofitable crop is worse than seed which won't grow at all, because it fools a farmer into wasting labor and land on it. Know what your seed will do by selecting it yourself.

Cheap seed corn may prove very dear; the seed corn that produces the best crop usually is the cheapest.

If you must buy seed, pay your neighbor a reasonable price for selected well preserved seed of a variety that has made good in a neighboring field; but don't pay a stranger a fancy price for seed claimed to give miraculous yields.

Points on Preparing for Planting Seed

Seed ears should be rubbed, and the kernels from tip and butt should be discarded from the seed supply. The small kernels from the tips are less productive than the other kernels on the ear; the thick rounded kernels from the butts are just as productive as any of the rest, but because of their shape and size they do not plant uniformly when used in a corn planter with other kernels.

Shelling by hand takes more time and labor, but is profitable. The mechanical corn sheller will injure some of the kernels, and thus destroy or reduce their power to grow and yield. No matter how large the required supply, says the department, it will still pay to shell it painstakingly by hand, because of the greater the acreage to be planted the greater the ultimate profit.

Each ear should be shelled separately into a shallow pan or box, and any blemished, poorly developed, moldy, or worm-eaten kernel should be rejected.

As the seed from each ear is found satisfactory and sound, and free from poor kernels, it is poured into the general supply, and another ear is shelled in the same way. It is much easier to pick out defective kernels from a thin layer in a small sieve than from a large mingled quantity in a bushel measure or a bag.

IS THE STEEL TRAP CRUEL?

Two beautiful setter dogs, owned by my friend, Herbert Crawley of Leominster, Mass., went off by themselves a few days ago, for a run in the woods. Late in the afternoon, a farmer heard a dog howling piteously; and another dog barking in a peculiar tone. He decided to follow it up, and was met by one of the dogs, which ran toward him and then from him, barking continuously. The dog seemed to be asking him to come, so he followed till he reached the dog's mate held fast by his foot in one of those cruel steel traps. The farmer tried to come near and release the prisoner, but the dog, mistaking him for the owner of the trap, would not let him approach. He went home and got another man and a flash light, by the aid of which the man read Mr. Crawley's name on the collar. As the dog still refused to let him approach, the farmer again went home and telephoned Mr. Crawley of his dog's plight.

When Mr. Crawley arrived on the scene, his dog manifested his delight, licking his master's hand and patiently enduring the pain of releasing his wounded foot from the steel jaws of the ugly trap. As soon as the trap was removed, the dog rolled over out of its way, and exhibited all the marks of gratitude of a human being toward his liberator.

Years ago I had a beautiful collie, myself trapped in this same way, and after being gone twenty-four hours or more, he got home to me at midnight, dragging the trap still fast to his paw. I shall never forget the tender human appeal of his eyes, when I opened the door and began to extricate his lacerated foot. In these days of liberation for men, when will the civilization of Massachusetts enact a righteous law for the protection of innocent dogs and wild animals as well, from the devilish brutality of the steel trap?—By Thos. Legate Fisher in Our Dumb Animals.

EXTRAZARDOUS

Another form of gambling is to be abolished. In the past one received a package of horseradish seeds with the compliments of his Congressman, and the whole family could bet on whether tomatoes, hollyhocks or verbena would be the result of the crop. The seed item has been stricken from the appropriation bill—Topeka Capital.

CONSCIENCE NOT FOR SALE.

All honor to Charles Evans Hughes and William Howard Taft! "When the liquor men began casting about for a man to contest constitutional prohibition in the courts, they decided to look for some one of social prominence," says the Christian Century. They laid down on the table in front of Charles Evans Hughes a check for $150,000. The great jurist replied: "I would not champion this cause before the courts for any sum of money you could name." Failing to buy Mr. Hughes, they next went to William Howard Taft and placed before him a signed check, telling him to fill it in for any amount he wanted. The reply to this statement will be memorable: "Gentlemen, you couldn't pile enough gold on this continent to induce me to take your case before the courts and before the public, for I will have you know my conscience is not for sale." In sad contrast to these stalwart men stands Elihu Root, in dark shadow, attorney for the liquor men.—Tennessee Mason.

"What's he in for?" asked Mr. Lansing.

"Fo' nothin' but stealin' a ham," exclaimed his wife.

"You don't want him pardoned," argued Mr. Lansing. "If he got out he would very likely only make trouble for you again."

"Deed I does want him out of dat place," she objected. "I need dat man."

"Why do you need him?" inquired Mr. Lansing.

"Me an' de chillun," she said "needs another ham"—Boston Globe.

How Crutcher & Starks Eliminated The Cut-Price Sale

Louisville, Ky., Firm Has Had Remarkable
Success In Removing the Price Appeal From Its Advertising.

By P. M. Fiske.

This authoritative article, from "The National Clothier," is reprinted by Crutcher & Starks without comment, so that the public will understand the national interest in the policy of "Standardizing Values," as instituted by Crutcher & Starks. "The National Clothier" is the recognized trade organ of the National Clothiers' Association. The membership of this association embraces practically every clothing merchant in the United States.

In the business of Crutcher & Starks, clothiers, of Louisville, Ky., the price appeal is no longer considered an essential in the advertising. "Standardized Values"—this is the slogan that put the little old price mark out.

Four years ago this firm was still following the practice of putting on special sales at set times during each year, and making a special feature of price in their newspaper advertising.

THE BIRTH OF A NEW ADVERTISING IDEA.

But about three years ago, just when the price hysteria seemed to be at its height, a prophet came into the business of Crutcher & Starks, in the form of Granville L. Burton. His special mission was to take active charge of the advertising for the store, of which his father and brother and himself are the owners.

TRUTH VS. HOCUS POCUS.

In the first place, Mr. Burton had the conviction that emphasizing quality and service would sell more goods than eulogizing prices. He believed that prices shouting in an advertisement create a stimulation which is only temporary with the buying public; they excite, but do not build; they are a foundation to be shunned in buying a lasting confidence in an established business house, which puts its satisfaction of the customer first, and that if dignity is to be served, prices must be made subservient to values. Back in his private office Mr. Burton set about the task of putting his ideas across. The first thing he did was to coin a slogan which should succinctly express the keynote of the Crutcher & Starks policy of his management: "The Store of Standardized Values"—five short words, which have entirely superseded the garish price allurements of the other days. It is used in the minds of the Louisville public now, and the past three years have made it a freestone symbol through the program of publicity which Crutcher & Starks have given it in association with their name.

The appearance of this slogan marked the close of featuring prices in the advertising of this store. Prices are seldom mentioned, unless in ridicule.

PSYCHOLOGY A FACTOR.

Crutcher & Starks are big advertisers. In fact, their advertising is in keeping with a volume of business exceeding $1,000,000 a year. But every dollar spent in advertising by Crutcher & Starks is devoted to the purpose of cultivating confidence in the quality of goods they sell, and in suggesting the values which the store specializes in offering, without a whisper of any price temptations. There is a psychology in this which Mr. Burton contemplates as follows:

"There are two methods of selling merchandise. One is to play up price, which attracts the bargain hunters, and the other is to talk quality and service and reliability, which is always desired by the better trade, and which the bargain hunters themselves really want in the long run. While quality and low price are frequently compatible, it is nevertheless impossible to build up a quality atmosphere in advertising and mention prices in the same breath. They fight each other. A policy must be based on one or the other.

THE ABUSE OF PRICE MARKS.

"I hate price marks. To my mind they are only enduring in an advertisement when needed to indicate the quality of goods which can not be properly described in any other way. We never advertise a cut price, under any circumstances, and haven't had a special sale in three years. What are you doing when you tell the public that you are offering goods worth $45.00 at $27.50? You are either misrepresenting or you are spending your money to advertise the fact that you are a rotten buyer, and are loaded up with most mortens, and are trying to realize something on them before the interest eats them up. We make mistakes in buying, too, but we don't tell the world about it. We rarely cut a price, but when we have to, we do it very softly by putting on another ticket—not by drawing a red line through the old price and printing the reduced price underneath.

QUALITY THE PRIME FACTOR.

"Here are three considerations which we instruct our salesmen to keep in mind when selling clothes. The first of these is Quality, the second Style, and the third Price. They are trained to size a customer up, and to start him off by showing the quality of merchandise they think he will want. They talk the goods themselves, and the last thing mentioned is the price. Our experience has been that customers seldom ask prices when they come in here. Very frequently a sale is made and the goods wrapped up before the buyer knows what they will cost him.

A SUCCESSFUL POLICY.

"The success of our 'Standardized Values' policy during the past three years has, of course, been due to the fact that we mark our goods fairly and closely, and the public knows it. It is our opinion that we sell more goods in the regular way by far without cutting a price than we could possibly turn over by the special sale method, no matter how we tried. I think the reason for that is that when a man buys a suit here in October for $50.00 he knows that we are not going to have the same thing on sale at a cut price in November. The public is getting dubious regarding these big price slashes. People are beginning to steer clear of stores which sell them goods at a high price in season and cut that price in two a week later.

"Most people will pile up to the limit of their means to get high-grade goods rather than save a dollar or so in buying shoddy clothing. When they flock to a cut price sale they do it in the hope of getting quality just the same, but they think they are going to get it for less money. It stands to reason that they can't, of course, and the advertising we have been doing in this store has been designed to show them why they can't.

PROFITABLE ADVERTISING.

"Of the sum appropriated yearly by Crutcher & Starks for advertising, 10 per cent is set aside for street car display card publicity.

"A series was gotten up on the idea of the spider and the fly, the spider being used to represent the cut-price merchant lying back in his web, luring the unsuspecting fly (the customer) into his cut-price sales with enormous reductions in prices as the bait. The first card of this series to appear in the street cars carried the cartoon of the spider waving a cut-price suit before the eyes of a large green fly, with no other wording than this 'Come into my clothing parlor, said the spider to the fly.' There was nothing to indicate who the advertiser was. At the end of two weeks' time, during which Crutcher & Starks received many reports that they were thought to be the sponsors of this advertisement, because of their well-known antipathy to cut-price sales, this nameless card was supplanted in the street cars by one bearing the store slogan and signature, on which the spider was again represented displaying a '$40.00 suit reduced to $24.75,' and the new legend, 'My eye! said the fly. How could you have the face to charge so much in the first place!'

The second card was run for a month. A third card followed, with the spider still waving a suit 'Oddly priced at $10.93' and a new verse: 'My Eye! Said the Fly, Standardized Values for me, where $10.00 even, you see, seems less fishy than $10.93.' The spider and fly idea was developed for several months. In fact, human analysis and psychology are the fundamental bases of practically all of Mr. Burton's advertising."
